

---

New MIRC Comment

1 message

Mon, Sep 9, 2013 at 8:16
AM

Reply-To: [REDACTED]
To: vamirc@mirc.virginia.gov
[REDACTED]

First Name - Gregory

Last Name - Marinkovich, MD

Organization Name - Home

About file - Obamacare is nothing less than a brazen attempt to completely change the nature of American medical care delivery. Though it promised to control costs, the only cost control will be realized when we are ALL are under the thumb of the national government's bureaucrats and their rules to eliminate "fraud, waste, and abuse." I worked in the Army as a physician and informatician for nearly 20 years. The Army wanted to do the same thing, but were unsuccessful. Medicare has been reporting enormous "fraud, waste, and abuse" for years. Now we can eliminate it by enlarging the system that has that defect inherently connected to it. These ivory tower geniuses think that they can set up "systems" where all care can be monitored and tracked, and, in doing so, either praised for conformity to the national standards or punished for deviance from those standards. Computers have allowed the NSA to monitor nearly all Internet and telecommunications traffic across the US. Who's to say they can't leverage those tools to monitor all medical care? What Obamacare does immediately is pay for insurance for nearly 30 million people who did not have insurance before, of course the vast majority of those people voluntarily chose not have health insurance, but since ivory tower geniuses know what is best for everyone, let's hand out insurance to everybody. Where will all the money come from to pay for this expansion of the national social justice state? Well what cannot be realized from eliminating "fraud, waste, and abuse," will be taken from those who have too much and simply printed at the Treasury department. What could happen? People with too much will have their monies taken from them and people without enough will keep getting more and more from the Democrat party.