Quite simply, I would like for Virginia to sign on for the Medicaid expansion. It is foolish to leave money on the table, especially money that will provide health care to people who need it. EVERYONE needs health care, whether or not they have much money. I am able to pay for insurance and so do not need Medicaid, but I am happy to have my federal and state tax dollars support the good health of my neighbors who have less money. It is in everyone's best interest to have a society in which every person you meet has access to good health care.
