Comment - I support expanded Medicare coverage. I have seen reports that the number of people covered under the expansion will "soar" from 1 million to 1.4 million. If 400,000 individuals in the state are in need of medical coverage it should be provided. If uninsured individuals end up in ERs because they have put off getting preventive care or care at the onset of an illness, the people of Virginia will still be paying the "hidden" cost. 400,000 people live with the insecurity of not having medical treatment they can rely on while the rest of us live with the illusion that the current situation is somehow without cost
