Comment - Many years ago I heard Margaret Thatcher speak to the National Press Club. In her remarks she commented that she would never understand how the United States could insure that all of its citizens could receive an education through the public school system but would not insure that all its citizens could be assured of health care. I have never forgotten her comment and believe that Mrs. Thatcher, a noted conservative, would think that Virginia should expand Medicaid so that more Virginians could receive the health care needed by everyone. I hope that the members of the Commission will also agree with Mrs. Thatcher. Thank you for your consideration.
