I am writing as a retired senior who has long followed the need for expanded medical cost coverage, particularly for lower income individuals and families. An opportunity society requires that all citizens have access to certain basics: healthcare is near the top on that short list. Many are now lacking access to healthcare, and those that receive healthcare are provided services that cost too much, do not provide necessary continuing care, and the costs are too often covered by charging other patients inflated amounts. Expansion of Medicaid in Virginia, under the ACA, is badly needed and will benefit all Virginians.
