Comment - I am a primary care physician in Central Virginia. I believe that access to basic health care is a human right. No other developed country allows its indigent citizens to go without health insurance. Yet no other country pays as much as the US does in health care costs. It's time to redirect the money in healthcare from the highly specialized (often excessive) care of the wealthy to the poor who need basic health care delivered in the outpatient setting by a primary care physician. This country cannot continue to succeed if we keep allowing the poor to go without basic health care and preventative care.
