

New MIRC Comment

1 message

Sun, Sep 8, 2013 at 5:22 PM

Reply-To: [REDACTED]

To: vamirc@mirc.virginia.gov
[REDACTED]

First Name - Jane C

Last Name - Dewberry

Organization Name -

About file - Expanding Medicaid in Virginia will cost the citizens of this state a fortune as the cost of doing so will be passed on to the consumer as is always the case. The present administration and the others pushing Obamacare down our throats are hoping that the greater part of the population won't be aware of that fact. Since many doctors are refusing to see Medicare patients because they can't afford to, an expansion will probably make it even more difficult for Medicaid patients to receive the care they need. Mr. Obama and his cohorts don't really care whether they receive medical care or not, all they really want in another way to control the populace and erode our individual freedoms one at a time.