Comment - One of my friends, a 54 year old childless woman, has only worked part time jobs, so she has no health insurance. She has just been diagnosed with a life-threatening disease and is very worried about how she will be able to pay for treatment. Without health insurance, my friend may as well have received a notice of her impending death. Expansion of Medicaid to include individuals such as my friend, will allow her to be treated with dignity and will greatly enhance her peace of mind. Please don't let my friend die of worry.
