Comment - As a Obstetric RN and IBCLC in No.Va, I had the privilege of being able to take care of many uninsured newly delivered immigrant Mothers, They were exceedingly caring and all breastfed their babies. Most of them were going to be returning to menial jobs and were extremely grateful to be able to qualify for WIC (as it was known then). They were very conscientious about ensuring that their infants receive their immunizations as needed and on time. Their humble apartments were usually clean and neat. I always was received with gratitude as I had mastered Medical Spanish and they were able to understand my patient education instructions.
