Comment - Expanding Medicaid under the US government's offer of full funding of new beneficiaries for perhaps 3 years would be crazy. The subsidy won't last forever and taking on this kind of obligation which could increase 13% on average in 2014 alone would make no sense. A better reform would be to try to repair Medicaid's present dysfunctions. I understand that an Oregon controlled trial concluded that Medicaid generates no discernible improvement in health compared to being uninsured.
